Be prepared for an epic experience – you will need both wisdom and strength to survive. This is a survival RPG with features found in The Forest, Dead Age and other such games. You'll get to explore an abandoned skyscraper in a dystopian future full of giant mutants. The Story What is there to say? Things went bad in the future. Genetically enhanced humans (Germans) created robots to defend the world. Mankind began to disappear. 12 years ago, a gigantic attack tower was constructed right on the center of a previously peaceful town. The tower is located in a basement of a giant skyscraper that used to be in the heart of modern civilization. The skyscraper was eventually destroyed in the attack of the Death Star. The tower is now the only survivor of this attack. The tower has cameras all around. Combined with the system of the mayor, the tower is capable of controlling each and every resident of the town. It's sort of a system that monitors you and makes you live how and where you want to. In a sleepy town in the center of the country called St. Petersburg, there is a single bridge over the river leading to the safety of the forest. But the bridge is located within the town. So you can only come there and go back. The world is a ticking time bomb. The difference between life and death is only the time you get to live. You start off with nothing but an old pistol, a broken sword, and no food. The only way to survive is to explore, acquire new equipment, and fight with other people. Collecting equipment You need to find food and equipment to survive. You'll encounter monsters and other people in the world. You'll need to get items to fight them or survive. You can craft the weapons yourself or buy them from the people in the town. There are lots of equipment items to acquire. Weapons You can create weapons with the materials around. Weapon crafting will consume materials so don't forget to harvest from items you find. With some weapons, you can find new upgrades. Your favourite weapons have special features. You can upgrade your weapons in the workshop. Character and Inventory Your character will grow as you level up. You can also get new equipment and item packages. You can attach weapon charms to your weapons. Inside your inventory, you can equip a backpack to carry equipment

Ever since its release in 1975, the Celesta has been a staple of the electronic music scene. With the new sound that Oskar Schuster wanted to use, many other instruments needed to be replicated or sampled. For this he created the Dulcitone, a vintage analog synthesizer with a sound that resembles a celeste. By combining these two instruments, a typical old horror movie soundtrack became possible. Together with a highly resonant cinematic sound, Oskar created an atmosphere that captures the spirit of 80s/90s electronic music. -----

Key features: - A modern re-interpretation of a timeless instrument - An elaborate production process - Original music for your enjoyment

----- Thanks for being patient as we got the release of this content ready. We hope you will enjoy your experience with it, and if there's anything you'd like to see at all, just let us know! From the entire team at Double Eleven Advantages Disadvantages It would be difficult to imagine a more versatile guitar than the wonderful Yamaha F30. It comes in four solid finishes and can be used for classical, jazz, or rock, plus can be used as a bass guitar too. It has 12 frets and regular frets, and a range of 5 strings. Very versatile in this range, it is ideal for picking, strumming, and fingersnapping music. This is one of the reasons why it is so popular, as well. Build quality is good, as expected from a high-end product.

The action is good and feels comfortable to play. It is lightweight and practical, and has very comfortable and supportive strap. For such a versatile instrument, it has amazing features that make it perfect as the ultimate practice tool. Composers like to experiment with different tuning options so as to achieve a specific sound. If you wish to do something similar, you will have to play with the pitch of the strings. If you are flexible in your approach, you can move to another string while the guitar is still at its lowest tuned. There are two different tunings, the standard C and A, and a sharp C and a standard A. It's best to explore the difference between the two and find what works for you. Using the octave buttons you can change the octave, and the capos let you play in any fret in the range from the first to the 12th for PC Local developer Dingo Gaming has released a new PC version of its Xbox 360 title, Gear.Club Unlimited 2. This updated version includes the full Ultimate Edition content of the full motion arcade game as well as contains the original soundtrack from the game. Players may purchase the PC version via Steam and through the Dingo Gaming store for $14.95. Gear.Club Unlimited 2 is part of the limited stock of Dingo's Arcade license for the Nintendo Wii. The two Japanese manufacturers are planning to announce their next generation consoles (PS5, Xbox Next) in May 2017 (18th). It is rumored that we might get 4K resolution and innovative features like Google's Daydream VR compatibility. Ahead of the main announcements, Sony will sell its new Playstation 4 Pro and Xbox One X console. The Pro costs $400 and the X will cost $499. These recent price hikes will happen alongside the introduction of the PS4 and Xbox One S consoles. In video games, or generally in gaming environments, there are usually multiple players that can interact with a situation of the game or that can take part in the gameworld. These additional characters, whether based on the classical role of a simulation, or of a character in a movie or a role-playing game (RPG), typically take control of the game when a player fails to succeed in some way. Thus, there is often more than one player sharing the same gameworld to cooperate with each other. The players can be in the same game world, or in a second one. In this second world, it is the case, for example, that players can cooperate in order to defeat a bad enemy that can be controlled by the host of the game. In this case, the rules of the game are the same as for the player in the first game world. The players cooperate by taking control of the bad enemy, and defeating it while the host protects the hostile scenario which would otherwise cause damage to the host. Thus, the multiple players of a game share the game environment, and can jointly contribute to the success of the player, when the player fails to succeed alone. In this case, the other players are able to take control of the gameworld and make their mark on it. The actions of the other players are limited to the parts of the game world which is guarded by the player. The other players are typically not able to influence the gameworld beyond what the player is able to influence. Thus Dirt Rally will feature stunning visuals, a legendary soundtrack, and intense Championship Pro Class racing where players are pushed to their limits on a series of demanding rally stages. It builds on the skills of previous Codemasters rally games, but with a brand new physics system that offers a huge range of gameplay options. Players can use a combination of core skills and track-specific abilities to win races, including drifting, off-road driving, aerobatics, and rallying in style. Advanced driving assists, including camera-based rear view mirror and an all-new off-road handling system create the most authentic rally experience available. About This Platform: PlayStation 4 Dirt Rally will be released on September 15, 2016 for the PlayStation®4 system worldwide. Forums Nice site. I love that it doesn't try to force you into using a "pending" or waiting for approval post to see your new review. Here's hoping your long term survival will be enough to avoid getting caught in that nonsense. The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) on Thursday proposed a budget cut of $1 billion, or 18%, for the agency in a move that comes as the Trump administration said it plans to slash funding to the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB). The proposed cut, which

POLITICO reported last month, will be met with protests on Capitol Hill, where House Democrats have promised to oppose the budget cuts to the CPB and smaller grants for health programs, including Meals on Wheels, which provides meals for older Americans, and HIV prevention programs for incarcerated people. Several Democratic presidential candidates have also called out the cuts, and this week the Justice Department's Community Action Program sued the Justice Department for not releasing the funds requested.

ADVERTISEMENT The cuts to HHS were proposed in the budget blueprint being sent to Congress on Thursday. The cuts, which would be enacted in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, are part of an across-the-board reduction in spending. The tax plan passed late last year gave Republicans much-needed short-term relief from the high levels of federal taxes, but it will add to the debt burden over the long term. The new budget blueprint indicates $567 billion will be spent in total for discretionary programs, which are not affected by sequestration. On the other hand, it will spend $293 billion in mandatory programs, but not including funding for social safety-net programs such as Supplemental

We can see that, it has some "more stuff" inside the body tag. How would I pull this information out programmatically? A: The answer is, that you can simply use python to extract the data from HTML or XML.

import html
import urlparse # Or what ever you have for access to the file system.
from urllib.request import urlretrieve # here is the html html_doc = urlretrieve(url, "file.htm") # in theory here is some processing, which runs over the html html_doc_string = html.fromstring(html_doc) # how many elements on the page elements = len(html_doc_string.entities.keys()) # how many on the page elems = len(html_doc_string.text.split()) # saves the html of all elements elements_html_doc = str() for char in html_doc_string.entities.keys():
    elements_html_doc += str(html_doc_string.entities[char]) elems_html_doc = str()
for elem in html_doc_string.text.split(): elems_html_doc += str(elem) # loops over the page element and retrieves all text in the current element in time # with some documentation from Google def get_elements_text(html):
    # + might work, or html.fromstring might be useful
    html_doc = html.fromstring(html)
