"I really enjoyed it, and enjoyed it a lot. This is a game that is going to appeal to many of those of a fantasy mindset. I also found myself having much fun even with friends. Sometimes I'd find myself being too idle or lazy to pay attention to other events, but that doesn't happen too often. The humor in the game is really good, and I found myself laughing all the time. I think this game is an absolute must play." --Raptor "I have been quite looking forward to this game as it already has pretty high ratings in the Japanese version. I found myself enjoying the game quite a bit and even found myself enjoying it quite a bit, which I wasn't expecting. The amount of content here is what I was expecting from the game, and what I liked about it is that the game is plenty fun. In the end it was a great game and I found myself spending quite a bit of time with it. I liked it so much I am recommending it." "For the most part I really enjoyed the game, though there are a few things I didn't enjoy. The music is kind of lame at times, and while I enjoyed the overall atmosphere of it, I would have prefered that it were a bit more atmospheric, and a bit more subtle." --Chiaki "Good art, awesome story, awesome characters, awesome music. I spent a pretty solid 6 hours with this game. I enjoyed it quite a bit and it was a pretty good game as well. My only complaint about the game is that it seemed as though the battles were random for the most part, but then I realised that this is probably because I didn't use any action points." --Botsonic DEVELOPERS HIROKO OZAWA Hiroko Ozawa is the writer behind Touhou Project and Touhou Gekihou, both of which previously led her to become an Associate Professor in the Communication Studies Department of the Faculty of Liberal Arts at Chuo University.
